New Pupils To Tax Capacity Of Local High School

YULE TREE AT 23rd STREET

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

People cry about this being a hard year, and about the depression, but a certain radio station collecting toys and money for needy children for Christmas reported yesterday that there has been a much larger response this year than ever before.

* * * *

Newspapers collecting money for the poor also report that thousands are giving small sums to aid the needy.

* * * *

Another great American custom, which should be abolished is this idea of drinking a cup of hot water every morning after arising.

* * * *

Or drinking a cup of orange juice. Nothing tastes more insipid than a cup of hot water, or a glass of orange juice. One generally has to light a cigarette to kille the taste of both.

* * * *

The manner in which some of these publicity men send in their articles is clever, to say the least.

* * * *

One will receive an article, let us say, dealing with the raising of coffee. It may be a first class story, of good news interest to the public. And then, one finds down at the bottom of the story that it is nothing but publicity propaganda for some coffee company.

* * * *

Which all reminds us of a certain "news service." Good news, good coverage, and first class stories. But half of 'em were propaganda for a certain personage.

* * * *

During the war, America and the Allies learned of the value of concentrated propaganda. And newspapers that aided in this drivel, are now getting the kick-back in the form of free publicity that is purely propaganda.

DUST HEARING FOR MONDAY

MARTINEZ, Dec. 12.—Whether the Cowell Lime and Cement company will install dust arrestors to curb the alleged injury to farmer's crops in Clayton valley or whether the landowners will bring suit to have the plant ousted will be determined when the interested parties meet with the board of supervisors Monday.

At a scheduled meeting with the board last month, W. H. George, manager of the plant was unable to be present. It was declared today that he has made a survey of the situation and will be prepared to make a report Monday.

A. C. Carr, head of the dust committee, declared that dust arrestors could be installed at a cost that would not hamper the plant's continuance.

If the alleged menace is not eliminated the farmers have declared that they will bring suit to have the plant declared a public nuisance.

Throwing Of Rocks Brings Wife Sentence

Throwing rocks through the windows constitutes an act of disturbing the peace, even though it is done by a wife who has separated from her mate.

That was what Judge C. A. Odell ruled yesterday when Mrs. Anna Fahey appeared before him on the complaint of her husband who declared his wife came to his home early yesterday and tossed stones through the panes to interrupt his sleep.

Judge Odell sentenced Mrs. Fahey to 30 days in the county jail but withheld commitment. Fahey lives at 631 Bissell avenue.

SANTA CLAUS VISITS CITY TODAY

Macdonald avenue is expected to be lined with eager faced children this morning when Santa Claus pays his official visit to Richmond.

At 9:30 a. m. Santa will arrive at the corner of Macdonald and Twenty-third escorted by motorcycle police and a detachment of firemen.

He will ride down the street in a parade consisting of automobiles, police, and fire department cars to be greeted by children and grown-ups along the line of march.

From time to time he will throw presents and trinkets to eager hands along the way.

The city's official silk hat will make its appearance when Mayor A. B. Hinkley will don the toppiece in honor of the visitor's arrival.

The hat now resting in the city's safety deposit vault is brought forth only on state occasions. Mayor Hinkley considered this an opportune time to display the ornament.

Automobiles in the parade will be decked in Christmas greenery, while others who will not have time to make the new appearances will ride in cars used in everyday business.

From Twenty-third avenue the paraders will march down Macdonald avenue to Second where they will turn and go to Twelfth at Memorial hall, where all will disperse.

Vets Discuss Jobless Aid

Unemployment and what the Veterans of Foreign Wars could do to relieve it, formed the main subject for discussion at the Contra Costa county council, Veterans of Foreign Wars meeting held in Pittsburg last night.

Four members of the Richmond post attended the meeting which sent a letter of praise to the Alameda council for its work in aiding the needy veterans.

Discussion of the veterans bonus was also had during the evening. The four men who attended from Richmond were: William Jones, J. E. Amiot, George Sanderson and W. Dolan.

JURY FINDS 2 YOUTHS "GUILTY"

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—UP—John Cusack and Philip Mangerene, who "went dancing before they tortured an old man to death" and who "went to a movie afterward" were found guilty today of the murder of Goetano Marcelli, aged hermit of Visitacion Valley.

The verdict, brought in after the jury had deliberated for five hours was made with recommendation of life imprisonment.

Sentence was to be pronounced by Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco Monday.

Old Man Slain

Cusack and Mangerene, 22 and 23, were arrested with Mrs. Josephine Mitchell, after Marcelli, an eccentric recluse, beaten and burned with hot irons, was found in the shanty he occupied with several cats, dogs and goats in Visitacion Valley, near the southern boundary of the city.

The old man died several hours

Western Pacific Buys New Line

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—When the Interstate Commerce Commission granted the Western Pacific railroad right to buy majority control in the Denver and Rio Grande Western, another step in the former's fight to gain supremacy in railroad matters was forged.

With the control of the D. and R. G. W. some of the richest coal mines in the country will be served by the road, all of which can be brought direct to the bay area by the one road.

Although the D. and R. G. W. is only 300 miles in length it controls the famous Moffatt tunnel through the Colorado Rockies. The strategic importance of the approval lies in the fact that the D. and R. G. W. can by constructing a 41-mile link known as the Dotsero cutoff join its rails with the D. and S. L. to make use of the Moffat tunnel. This would lessen the route from Denver to Salt Lake by 173 miles. With this connection the Eastbay will be given a transcontenintal railroad shorted by 150 miles than any on other line now in operation.

Park Tree To Be Decorated

In an effort to further the campaign of getting a large number of outdoor Christmas trees, the Richmond Lions will decorated a tree in Memorial park today that it may be lighted early next week.

On the tree will appear in electric lights the words "Lions club." The program sponsored by the club in which a large number of persons in the city are aiding in the drive to have as many outdoor Christmas trees as possible, is expected to be greatly aided by this plan of the organization.

Honor Awarded Richmond Girl

For the second consecutive semester Barbara Eby, 13 year old student at the Roosevelt junior high school was declared at the top of the scholarship list of the school.

For this performance the girl will have her name inscribed for the second time on the plaque kept in the school as an honor for excellent scholarship.

Miss Eby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester G. Eby, 725 Bissell avenue.

THE WEATHER

Unsettled and mild followed by rains.

DECORATION WILL START TODAY

A Christmas tree, measuring more than 20 feet tall, has been erected in a lot at the intersection of Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue.

This huge tree will be decorated today by civic minded merchants, residing in the Twenty-third street district.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the huge Christmas eve celebration which will be held under the tree.

According to the tentative plans, there will be a party for the children and gifts will be distributed.

The move to have the big Christmas tree at the street intersection was started as it was learned that there would be no Yuletime decorations for this part of the city. Downtown Richmond has been decorated with living trees and lighted trees attached to poles.

Further announcements in regard to the proposed Christmas eve party will be made in the near future.

RODEO BANDIT CAR IS FOUND

SAN FRANCISC Dec. 12.—Discovery of the car used by Frank G. Smith, slain bandit leader and his gang to escape after holding up the Rodeo branch of the Bank of Pinole and killing Constable Arthur McDonald has just been announced by postal authorities here.

The robbery committed in Sept. 1929 cost the bank $25,000. Although more than a year old, blood stains were still apparent in the car found in a San Francisco garage. The blood is believed to be that of Smith wounded by McDonald before he was brought down by a bullet from the gun of the bandit.

Mrs. Ellen Smith, widow of the dead bandit will appear in Federal court here Monday to enter a plea in the indictment charging her with conspiracy in connection with the McAvoy train robbery.

Leonard Schmitt, secret service man who killed Smith when he attempted to escape officers in Oakland was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

John Moore Talks At Church Meeting

John Moore, newly elected Justice of the Peace, last night addressed the members of the Luther league at their annual Christmas banquet. His topic was "Choosing a Vocation," and he pointed out that consideration of what a person is best fitted for might save many from becoming misfits. Moore also stated that he belived much of success depended on the service that one gives to his fellow men.

Readings were presented during the evening by Mrs. C. O. Bryant, while Mrs. Ethel Borgstrom entertained with piano solos. Leonard Hudson presented a violin solo.

The Christmas banquet was one of the finest events of the holiday season, and more than 50 members of the Luther league gathered at the affair. Robert Bowen, president of the league, presided during the evening and Robert Drexel acted as toastmaster at the banquet.

181 WILL START AT HIGH HERE

More than 100 studen'ts will be registered at the Richmond union high school when the semester opens in January than were enrolled during the semester just ended.

Wednesday the high school graduated a class of 78 students, whose places will be taken by a class of 181 pupils from the two junior high schools.

This more than 199 students, along with additional pupils who will transfer from other cities will tax the building to capacity, B. X. Tucker, principal of the school declared.

Total enrollment of the school is expected to be approximately 1200, the number of students for which the school was constructed to accomodate.

The 100 new students will be absorbed in various classes, in addition to other new classes that are expected to be instituted to care for the larger enrollment.

No new teachers are expected to be engaged, but the return of Miss Gladys Nunn, who has been on leave while studying in France and Spain will relieve much of the extra work that will be given the teaching staff.

Fuston Son Escapes In Fall

ALAMEDA, Dec. 12.—A 1000 foot leap from an airplane caught in a tail spin saved the life of Frederick J. Funston, son of the late Gen. Frederick Funston today when he landed in the bay to be rescued by two small boats.

Funston was putting his plane through a series of tests in preparation for examination for a pilot's license. He was approximately 3000 feet over the bay when the plane hopelessly caught in a tail spin.

The ship dropped 2000 feet before Funston could extricate himself to leap into the bay. The plane hit the water not more than a few seconds later and disappeared.

At airport headquarters here where Funston was taking an examination it was revealed that he did not even receive a scratch. The airport's emergency boat and duck hunters nearby went to the man's assistance and pulled him out of the water almost as soon as he had landed.

Funston's leap makes him a member of the Caterpillar club. He is married and lives at 1516 Broadway.

San Francisco To Give Jobs To 1000

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—Supervisor Andrew Gallagher announced today that jobs for 1000 men will be ready next month. These men will supplement 1500 men now at work on special projects.

He declared he plans to set aside another $10,000 for the aid of jobless women.

HIGH BAIL IS SET FOR LEADER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—UP—The financial institutions which Gilbert H. Beesemyer built up came tumbling down about him today as the 45-year old promotor confessed he had personally misappropriated $8,000,000 for individual speculation.

His story was the old one of the trusted financier—small speculations at first, unforseen losses and ever larger misappropriations in a frantic effort to return the money he had taken.

Beesemyer's act brought failure to the Guaranty Building and Loan association, from which he admitted taking $6,000,000 in five years. The North American Bond and Mortgage company, from which he took $2'000,000 and the Guaranty Holding corporation were under investigation.

ARMY ELEVEN MEETS NAVY TODAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—UP—The greatest of American sports spectacles that thrills—Army vs. Navy in football—will be staged tomorrow afternoon on the frost bitten grass of Yankee stadium.

As in the past, that is, before 1927 when the two service academies severed relations, the game will be more than just another 60 minutes of football.

Army and Navy playing in strict privacy would be colorful. Throw them together in the huge stadium with some 80,000 folks, including the two most picturesque student bodies in the country, banked row after row in the high steep seats, and you have an eye filling, breath taking spectacle.

Training Ends

Both squads ended preparations for the game today—Army at its camp in Westchester 30 miles away and Navy in the stadium.

Coach Bill Ingram had the Midshipmen out for more than an hour. The Middies indulged in sitting up exercises, punting, passing, and dummy blocking. The field was soft and soggy.

According to Spike Webb, Navy's veteran trainer, the team is in the best condition of the year. Joe Pshirgi and Lou Kirn, half backs, are the only ailing members and they are not ailing much.

Coach Doubtful

Kirn will start as right half and Pshirgi is certain to see action before the game reaches the half-way point.

Coach Bill Ingram expressed surprise that Navy is rated an equal chance to win.

Army, on the strength of the record book does rate to win. In addition, Army has a much more powerful line than Navy and games are won in the line.

The backfields are about equal with the shade, if any, on Navy's side of the fence.

Bauer, Gannon, Kirns and Hagberg are probably the trifle stronger, a little bit more versatile and a little trickier than Bowman, Kilday, Stecker, and Frenzell, Army's starting combination.

Navy holds an edge in the kicking, both Bostrom and Hagberg are long, accurate booters, something that cannot be said for any Army punter.

Army, like Navy is in top condition. Sebastian, halfback, is the only regular whose condition is doubtful. Major Ralph Sasse, Army head coach, is none to optimistic the game's outcome.

Hunt On For Lost Fliers

SEATTLE, Dec. 12.—UP—Preparations were made here today to renew the search for Pilot Robin Renehan and his two companions, Sam Clerw and Frank Hatcher, lost in the northland more than six weeks ago.

Parties who have been searching for the missing trio since their disappearance received new hope that their search would be successful by the discovery of Capt. E. I. A. Burke's party Wednesday by Pilot Everett Wasson and Joe Walsh, veteran woodsman.

The 90 foot steamer Margnita, was being prepared to sail north, carrying from 26 to 25 men. The steamer also carries a number of small outboard motorboats, which will be used to thoroughly comb the inlets, bays and coves that dot the broken coast of British Columbia, in an effort to find some traces of Renahan.

Grid Players Paid Honor At Rotary Meeting

Four members of St. Mary's football varsity were guests of the Richmond Rotary club yesterday at which time they were presented with a decorated turkey.

Dick Boyle, "Bud" Toscani, Harry Ebding and Al Weisgerber were the four men who represented their varsity at the meeting. All spoke and had something to say about the defeat they administered to Fordham in New York recently.

Ramese IV, the ram captured by the men from Fordham is now being pastured at the Morage valley college.

Accordion solos by Amelio Traverso and piano and organ duets by Emily Esola and Carl Richards were the musical entertainment of the day.

Lud Johnson and George Thornton were in charge of the program. Next Friday the Christmas party of the club will be held when Roy Eakel, Clark Kratzer and Charles Renwick have charge of the program.

Ralph Capone Found Guilty Of Rum Count

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—UP—A federal grand jury indicted Ralph "Bottles" Capone, brother of the notorious "Scarface Al" Capone and 17 members of the gang leader's followers today, charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Thus, in its own methodical way, the government struck another telling blow upon the "$100,000,000 a-year liquor syndicate" which the gangster chieftain has built up and made supreme in the underworld of the country's second largest city.

It was the closest to the business of "Scarface Al," that any attack has fallen since he himself was incarcerated in a Philadelphia jail for carrying a mere pistol. Although several convictions have been obtained recently, notably against Ralph Capone, and others high in the Capone council, they have been for income tax evasions and not for liquor violations, which form the bulk of the cash returns.

While the indictments are not as spectacular as the raids conducted several years ago in which the police force of the suburb of Chicago Heights was locked in its own jail by federal agents, they represent an inquiry far more painstaking and dangerous because conducted in the "Capostown" of Cicero. Its inhabitants long ago learned to keep quiet where "the mob" is concerned.

Specifically, Capone and the others were charged with 24 overt acts which include 400 separate liquor sales in two notorious night clubs, the Cotton club and the Montmarte, both in Cicero.

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson simultaneously informed the attorney of "Scarface Al" Capone that he wanted the gang leader personally in Judge James Wilkinson's court next Monday.

Stribling Wins Poor, Unexciting Bout In Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—UP—W. L. "Young" Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, defeated Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffith of Sioux City, Iowa tonight in a slow ten-round fight before 20,000 fans who repeatedly booed the Georgian.

The decision was given by two judges and the referee.

Referee Purdy, scoring on the basis of ten points a round, gave Stribling 52 points and Tuffy 48. Judge Walter Battye scored 55 points for the southerner and 45 for Tuffy while Judge Ed Cline gave Stribling 56 points to 44 for Tuffy.

Stribling made one of the poorest showings he ever has given in Chicago and was a disappointment to the crowd which had installed him as a two to one favorite.

BATTALINO IN WIN OVER KID

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 12.—UP—Christopher Battalino of Hartford, Conn., successfully defended his world featherweight title tonight by winning a decision over Kid Chocolate of Cuba in a 15-round bout.

The victory was the fifth of a series of upsets in the winter season at the Gardens.

Chocolate had been favored by seven to five.

Most of the Battalino money was brought to New York by a delegation of home town enthusiasts, headed by Governor Rumbell. The Connecticut fans formed a virtual cheering system for the little Italian.

Battalino weighed 124 1-4 and Chocolate 125. Chocolate was off to an early point lead, but soon tired.

The decision was unanimous and made a big hit with the crowd of 15,409 who paid $70,-074 to see it.

Battalino's share was 37 1-4 per cent and Chocolate 12 1-4 percent.

Chocolate got to Battalino in the first round and had him down for a count of eight.

Battalino came up smiling but it was a forced smile for Chocolate had stung the fighter with an uppercut to the temple.

This was the Bat's worst round. In it he also sustained a deep cut in his left eyelid. The wound bled badly and troubled him throughout the fight. Battalino had a "second round jinx." he has found plenty of trouble in this round but tonight he threw caution aside and met the Kid in a furious toe to toe exchange.

Lindsey Hearing On Peace Charge Delayed A Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—UP—Ben B. Lindsey, the fiery little ex-judge from the banks of Cherry Creek whose views on connubial contracts have gained him far more prominence than the fact that he founded the country's juvenile court system, wiggled his way into West Side court today fully prepared to stand trial on a charge of disorderly conduct.

People stood eight deep in the aisles, jammed the corridors and crowded the entrance outside. And then, because some attache of the district attorney's office overlooked the word "wilfully" the hearing was put over until next Wednesday.

Bishop William T. Manning, the stern-faced cleric with whom Lindsey has been jousting, did not appear. He is under subpoena as a witness to testify in the case. C. H. Tuttle, former U. S. district attorney came in shortly before court opened and advised reporters that he was on hand as a friend of the bishop.

There ensued considerable polite argument as to the phraseology used in the complaint. Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for Lindsey, said that the instrument was so vague in its language that he could not tell what his client was charged with.

It seems that the complaint was drawn under two different sections of the statute. Half of it, according to Hays, charged the former judge with plain, undulterated disorderly conduct, which is punishable by six months' imprisonment or a $50 fine. The other half charged disturbance of a religious meeting, which carries a penalty of one year in prison and $500 fine. Hays said he wanted this matter straightened out before going to trial. The failure of the complaint to employ the word "wilfully" in referring to Lindsey's alleged "abusive an dinsulting behavior" caused all the trouble, it was agreed. So the prosecutor's deputy said the complaint would be amended by next Wednesday.

Few Unemployed In Gloucester

GLOUCHESTER, Mass. —UP— Mayor John E. Parker recently called a meeting to consider Glouchester's unemployment problem. Representatives of all the city's leading industries reported that business was booming and that there seemed to be no such "problem" locally.

City Engineer John H. Griffin said he was having trouble finding 15 unemployed men to add to his working crew.

LEWIS SCORES AMERICA IN ADDRESS

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 12. —UP— Sinclair Lewis, in critical mood, thrust incisively today at the commercialism he said dominated American civilization, but he added he was optimistic that the youth of the United States was busily producing a literature worthy of his country.

Lewis, the first American to be awarded the Nobel prize in literature, made his speech in formally accepting it. He shocked a distinguished audience of Swedish scholars and diplomats by the frankness of his analytical dissertion on America's development. He spared no words in denouncing the banking barons and the nation which, he declared, allotted an inferior role to the arts and literature.

Lewis railed at these sides of American culture and then defended its other aspects. He was not wholly cynical. He declared, for example, in one phase of his hour's address:

"The most unartistic assertion ever made was 'that America with all her wealth has not yet produced a civilization good enough to live in'. I believe that Strindberg really addressed Rotary clubs, yet Sweden seems to have survived him."

There was no question but that Lewis brutally caustic in his attacks on American commercialism and on the men who have produced that side of American development. He said:

"The business lords' rule the United States."

And a moment later he described America as "the world's most contradictory, stirring and depressing land."

Fliers Body To Be Brought Back

WHITEHORSE, Yukon, Dec. 12. —UP—Pilot Everett Wasson took off toward Wolfe lake today, to bring the body of Capt. E. J. A. Burke back here from its crude grave in the camp where Burke died while he and his two companions, Emil Kading and Bob Marten, were awaiting rescue.

Kading and Marten remained here for an inquest which will be held when Burke's body is brought back by Wasson.

Wasson, accompanied by Joe Walsh, veteran woodsman, planned to land on the same tiny lake where he stopped to rescue Kading and Marten, mush his way to the camp, and carry Burke's body over 10 miles of hard trail, bringing it back here by plane.

Bird Refuge For California Is Planned Soon

President Hoover, by an executive order of Nov. 25, has set aside as a refuge and breeding ground for migratory birds the government lands in the southern port of Salton Sea, in Imperial county, Calif. The lands involved have been withdrawn for reclamation purposes in connection with the Yuma Reclamation Project in Arizona and California. They are primarily under the jurisdiction of the department of interior and are subject to its use for irrigation and other incidental purposes, but as a wildlife refuge they will be administered by the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture.

This refuge, to be known as the Salton Sea Wild Life Refuge, attracts great numbers of waterfowl during their migrations and will constitute an important link in the network of refuges to be established in the west-coast region under the migratory bird conservation act of February 18, 1929. It will be unlawful to hunt within the area or to trap, disturb, or kill any wild animal or bird of any kind; to take or destroy the eggs of any wild bird; to cut, burn, or destroy any timber, underbrush, grass, or natural growth; to leave or suffer fire to burn unattended near any timber or other inflammable material; or to injure, molest, or destroy any property of the United States.

Barrier Group Hears Engineer

H. W. Crozier, San Francisco engineer who has made a survey of the bay barrier situation and conferred with the Hoover-Young commission on the matter was the principal speaker at the Bay Barrier and Industrial Water Users associations meeting in Hotel Carquinez last night.

Recommendations made by the Hoover-Young commission are expected to be made public in the near future by Crozier.

A dinner attended by a large number of members of the two organizations preceeded the speech made by Crozier. The barrier association voted to continue its present campaign for the erection of the project.

Naval Airplanes Set Safety Mark

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Fliers of the United States navy attained an average of 99.99 percent in safe flying during the fiscal year of 1930 figures released by Rear Admiral William A. Moffat, chief of the bureau of aeronautes revealed.

Of the 252,095 flights made only 14 resulted in fatalities. There were 430 crashes where the plane was damaged, 18 killed and 62 injured, the report showed.

Building up of the air forces to 52,000 tons was urged by Admiral Moffat.

GRID TROPHY PRESENTED RAMBLERS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 12.—UP—The Rissman trophy, emblematic of the national football championship, today was in permanent possession of Notre Dame University.

Prof. Frank Dickinson of Illinois University, originator of the Dickinson system of scoring by which championships are determined, presented the trophy at the annual dinner given the Notre Dame team last night. The trophy was awarded permanently in recognition of Notre Dame's having won it three times in a decade.

Rev. O'Donnell directed his address at opponents of football as a collegiate sport and defended it against persons he termed reformers.

"When all is said and done there in some appeal which football makes to the best of our American people and that appeal cannot be ignored," he said.

"I wonder," he continued "if anyone knows just what it is. So many anal'yze it differently. It is indeed confusing.

Surely millions of us are not lunatics, though there are superior persons who tell us that we are. But never mind. Not all the people who are clamoring for sanity are themselves sane and most reformers badly need to be reformed.

"I hope they keep their hands off college football at least a little while longer, and I'm not thinking principally of paying for our new stadium.

"No, I'm thinking of the levy of young men which football raises out of a group of 3000 young men, endows them with some collective personality which still leaves each man himself, and yet marks the group a unit, and embodies in it the hopes and aspirations, the courage, the daring, the hearty good fellowship, the fine good humor of the thousands in the school they represent."

Charity Races To Be Held At San Jose Sunday

SAN JOSE, Dec. 12.—With the 1930 dirt track racing season in California drawing to a close, local fans are anxiously awaiting the special attraction program between Babe Stapp of Indianapolis fame, and Mel Kenneally of Los Angeles.

These drivers will duel in five events of five laps each as the main attraction on the charity program, sponsored by the San Jose Exchange club Sunday.

Supporting the auto races will be three five lap motorcycle events featuring the leading two-wheel pilots on the Pacific coast. Les Dreisback of Berkeley, and Al Chasteen of San Jose will settle an old argument with a special race which promises to outshine the Stapp-Keneally duel.

Stapp will be seated in the popular Bobby Special of Watsonville while Keneally will pilot the famous Hooker Special, the fastest four cylinder job in the dirt track game today.

With a percentage of the proceeds going for charity work it is expected that one of the biggest crowds of the season will be in the stands when the opening shot is fired at 2 o'clock. Prices have been reduced to $1.00.

ABE LINCOLN STATUES FOR TOMB

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 12.—UP—Original bronze models of ten of the most prominent statues of Abraham Lincoln will occupy niches in the corridors of Lincoln's tomb when the remodeling work is completed.

The idea for such a display was suggested by Joseph Booton of the state architect's office and inquiries revealed that all of the models were available.

Attached to the wall by the side of each model, will be a bronze plate, describing the statue and giving the name of its sculptor. The new rotunda will contain no exhibits nor display of relics. Ten tablets will present the best of Lincoln's use of the English language his farewell address and Gettysburg speech among them.

The bronze models which will be placed in the rotunda are as follows:

St. Gauden's famous statue in Lincoln park, Chicago.

Satues by Daniel C. French in Lincoln, Neb., and in the Lincoln Memorial at Washington, D. C.

Lorado Taft's Lincoln, at Urbana.

Fred Torrey's "Lincoln, the Circuit Rider," and "Lincoln, the Ranger," both on horseback.

A. A. Weinman's statues showing Lincoln seated and located at his birthplace, Hodgenville, Ky., and at Madison, Wis.

Utilities Will Spend Millions For Improvements

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—Four of California's largest public utility corporations will spend more than $120,000,000 in new improvements during the year 1931.

With the prospects of the Pacific Gas and Electric, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, Southern California Edison, and Pacific Lighting calling for this huge expenditure, it was indicated all believed that the alleged depression has nearly run its course.

During the coming year the Pacific Gas and Electric will spend $40,000,000 its president A. F. Hockenbeamer declared today. During the present year the company pledged itself to spend $35,000,000 to co-operate with President Hoover's plea to aid the unemployment situation. It was believed the total expenditure would exceed that figure.

In 1931 the Southern California Edison will give steady employment to 5100 persons with a budget calling for $8,000,000 for this purpose and $28,000,000 for new improvements, the largest the company has ever expended.

Russell Bellard, president of the company declared his belief that his concern's spending will aid other industries.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company will spend $40,000,000 in 1931 for improvement, a figure which is well above the 10-year average, H. D. Pillsbury, president announced during the week.

C. O. G. Miller, president of the Pacific Lighting corporation declared his company will spend $12,000,000 which is above the 1930 budget. The extension of pipe line for transportation of natural gas will be the chief factors to be benefited by the money expenditure.

Wall Street Firms In Big Merger

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—UP—Merger of the important Wall Street banking and brokerage houses of Brown Brothers and company, W. A. Harriman and company Inc., and Harriman Brothers company was announced tonight by Thatcher M. Brown, a partner of Brown Brothers.

The new firm will operate, as of January 1, 1931, under the firm name of Brown Brothers, Harriman and company.

The announcement was taken in financial circles as an indication of the general business trend toward merger into powerful combinations.

SPAIN SWEPT BY NEW REVOLT

MADRID, Dec. 12.—UP—The cabinet tonight authorized the captain general in the Aragon region in northern Spain to declare a state of war in his area.

The action followed the outbreak of an armed revolt against the government at the fortified town of Jaca, on the French frontier, troops garrisoned in Jaca took over the town. Government forces were rushed to the scene of the rebellion.

An official communique declared that the rebels had evacuated Jaca at 3:30 p. m. by train and auto trucks. They were retreating rapidly, the communique said, before the government advance.

One Killed

The communique said the rebels had reached the village of Sabinanido at 4:30 p. m., where they encountered the local civil guard patrol of five men and a sergenat. The sergeant was reported killed in the clash.

It was announced officially that troops stationed at Pamplona had been ordered to march against the rebe's at Jaca. Forces from Huesca and Saragossa also were marching against the rebelling army units.

The rebel's were reported to have entrenched themselves at Jaca, within the three forts ther. They were declared desperate and ready to fight until their ammunition was exhausted.

350 Rebels

Officials in Madrid declared they believed the rebel strength totaled only 350 men.

The government issued an official communique declaring the rebel movement was headed by Lieut. Col. Julio Mangada. His two chief assistants were declared to be Major Galen and Major Rubio, of the Jaca forces.

The United Press learned from persons close to the government that the uprising was believed to be of syndicalist, or labor union, nature, because these leaders in the army had been closely connected with syndicalist leaders in recent months.

Starter Early

The uprising was reported to have started early today. A group of soldiers and civilians in the center of Jaca suddenly shouted: "Vivla la Republico."

They immediately took possession of strategic position sin Jaca. Loyal officers were imprisoned.

Gen. Enrique Marzo, minister of interior, insisted the government had ample means to subdue the uprising at Jaca. The government's attitude was that the unrising was an isolated incident which would be quickly quelled.

Railroad Cut

Government troops hurrying to Jaca from Saragossa were unable to progress, a communique said. The railroad was cut at Ayerbe.

The minister of interior announced that the censorship had been temporarily re-established. A censorship on outgoing messages from Spain was established during the early evening, but was lifted at 7:30 p. m.

Jaca is about 75 miles almost due north of Saragossa. Huesca is half way between Saragossa and Jaca, in the region known also as Huesca.

Additional government troops were ordered into the troubled region, and official communiques giving the names of regiments on the march were issued almost hourly.

HELEN KANE IN NEW FILM AT FOX

Kisses, Kane and Kolorful adventure with a savory zest of salt seas and all the heart stimulus of Charles Rogers in the uniform of the U. S. Coast Guard, is served up i ntuneful style for last times today at the Fox-California Theater, where Paramount's talking-singing version of New York's musical success, "Heads Up," is "on the make."

Rogers is his usual nifty and handsome self as a young lieutenant forced to decide between love and duty when the yacht belonging to his fiancee's family is surreptitiously adopted by smugglers. And the interest is keen when it looks for a spell that Margaret Breen, his blonde "clinging vine," is going to say "yes" to the proposal of the nefarious trade's master mind, Gene Gowing. Helen Carrington, as the mother eager to promote a fortunate marriage for her daughter, also gets herself thoroughly hated.

The original Rogers-Hart musical score includes two surefire hits, "Ship Without a Sail" and "My Man is on the Make." And you know what a gal like Helen Kane can do to melody-hearts, armed with nothing but a cupid-bow mouth and a couple of clefs. She's Margaret's "imp" sister, who lives and loves and gets all "het" up about "Skippy" Dugan's inventions, especially his water proof radio. Oh and the sacrifice the "Buddha of Boop" makes for a white signal banner in the shipwreck climax—ah—(business of gasping).

And Victor Moore does his original New York role as "Skippy" we're not going to give away a single one of his tricks—and every one of them is quite worth seeing you'll be convulsed—more broken ribs!

The direction is by Victor Schertzinger, and this accomplishment of ideal portions of suspense, love and humor, won't hurt his reputation a whit.

8 Of 300 Hurt In Crashes Thank Women For Aid

GLOUCESTER, Eng.—Mrs. Ehel M. Smith has given first aid to 300 injured motorists in eight years. Only eight returned after recovering to thank her.

The Smith home is near a dangerous "S" curve on a main highway. Although there occur an average of three accidents a month Mrs. Smith still helps to bring the victims inside, tears sheets for bandages and otherwise aid until medical assistance arrives.

PERSHING TO BE HONORED BY TOWN

LACLEDE, Mo., Dec. 12.—UP—General John J. Pershing, who was born in this Missouri town, will be honored here by a memorial in the form of a 3,000-acre national park. The memorial will be named the Pershing National park.

According to tentative plans, the project will cost approximately $500,000 when completed. The park will be located in the Locust creek bottoms west of here. It was in this section where Pershing played as a boy.

The initiative for the memorial was taken by old friends and neighbors of the general.

A state and national park association, bearing the general's name, has been organized and a committee has been formulated to secure more definite plans for the memorial.

Plans so far are for the state to take the uplands in the proposed park for the propagation of wild life, and for the government to take the bottom lands for the refuge of migratory birds.

General Pershing hunted and fished in this section when he was a boy, and on his trips home it is said that he always wanted to visit the banks of the Locust creek.

The committee selected plans to solicit the assistance of all American Legion posts and War Mothers in the country, as well as state and national government in order to put the program over.

Chambers of commerce in surrounding cities have expressed their approval of the plan.

Auto Death Increase Seen By Official

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Asserting that 442,800 lives would be saved this year in the United States if the death rate for the general population were reduced to that of life insurance policyholders, Dr. Harry W. Dingman, vice-president and medical director of the Continental Assurance company of Chicago, presented to the twenty-fourth annual convention of the association of life insurance presidents here today a survey of mortality in the United States for the current year. His observations were based upon a study of the deaths, during the first ten months of 1930, among 57,000,000 life insurance policyholders, nearly one-half of the country's population.

"It now appears that 1930 will rank second only to 1927 as the healthiest year in our history," said Dr. Dingman. The title of his address was, "Life and Death in 1930—National Health Reserves, Actual and Potential."

The survey indicates that death will claim this year 1,410,000 persons out of the population of the United States or 1,145 per 100,000, while the death rate among insured persons will be 785 per 100,000, according to Dr. Dingman. "If the general population death rate could be reduced to the insured population death rate, 442,800 lives would be saved this year," he said. "What a magnificent stake to challenge national effort! If the death rate of the insured half of the population is lower by 360 than among the uninsured half of the population, then the rate among the uninsured exceeds 1,500 per 100,000."

Weaknesses Told

Discussing the relationship between parts of the human system and mortality he said: "Old age a possible exception, we do not die all over, but here and there. Our bodies have eight places where we die, and if we know exactly what they are we can ascertain what weaknesses are there and strengthen them and stave off death the longer. The eight places where we die are concerned with circulation, respiration, digestion, innervation, urination, reproduction, motivation (internal glands), and structure.

"The span of life increases according to our community appreciation of health. We need community realization and when we get it longevity will increase throughout the land. Life and death are waging ceaseless conflict and even as the rules of war apply so also the psychology."

Calling attention to what was accomplished during the World War in arousing mass responsibility and mass action, he continued: "Conceivably the day will come when our citizens will wish to have a survey of our national health and ascertain just what our human life resources are. How stoutly we can combat a dangerous enemy the great war proved. Our leadership in state and press inspired us so that men, money and material of our nation were united with a singleness of purpose that would not be denied. Our fight against the hosts of death will have a similar success if ever we accept a civil healtth conscription for a day or two each year to get a comprehensive physical and mental appraisal. These days would be returned to us, added to and multiplied, in the longer and fuller lives that would result by attention focusing on the principles of health."

Less Deaths

Turning to the causes of death during 1930, with the observation that the insured death rate is an index of mortality throughout the country, Dr. Dingman summarized the results of his survey among life insurance policyholders saying: "In every 100,000 of our policyholders, the deaths this year are 56 less than last year. Credit 26 to influenza, 16 to pneumonia, 6 to tuberculosis, 5 to heart disease, and 4 to the childhood diseases of meningitis, diphtheria, whooping cough and measles. Credit one to Bright's disease and one to general accidents. The credits total 63. Cancer and scarlet fever are holding exactly even with last year, typhoid fever almost so. Now then, debit 7. Apoplexy gets 2 extra deaths per 100,000; automobiles another 2 deaths (1.7), a shameful increase of 8 per cent over last year. It is an illuminating commentary on current times that the other two factors, suicides and homicides, show 3 extra deaths. In a ten-month period, 8,517 of the 57,000,000 policyholders included in the survey have killed themselves, 1,643 more than last year. Of every 100,000 in the ordinary class, 30 committed suicide. Last year 24. In the industrial weekly pay group, the rate this year is 10, last year 9. It is a startling thought that 28 of our clients are choosing to die today, 28, if the law of average is operating.

"The big six of death are: first, heart disease, and first it has been since 1911, one single year excepted, when flu ran rampant in 1918; second, cancer; third, kidney disease closely pressed by apoplexy. Pneumonia drops to fifth place. Last year it was third. Tuberculosis is sixth.

"The automobile hazard grows worse. We must expect 32,000 fatalities this year. Our daily quota now is 90 unnecessary deaths. Must we wait for 100 deaths a day in 1931, 110 in 1932, before our public consciousness becomes awakened?

Cancer Baffling

"Tuberculosis used to be our greatest fear. It killed 202 per 100,000 of our general population in 1900 and 71 is to be expected this year, the lowest rate on record. But let us not be jubilant. There are some cities, Toronto and Hamilton, Ontario, for example, that have kept their rate below 50 for the last six years. Hamilton has not exceeded 40. Some day we shall salvage three-fourths of the 87,000 general population who are dying of tuberculosis this year.

"Cancer continues to baffle us. It carried off 63 per 100,000 in the United States in 1900, 96, in 1930—118,000 persons.

"But heart disease remains the chief of the causes. It is the commander-in-chief, because of so close an alliance with degenerative affairs in arteries and kidneys. The A B C's of death (apoplexy, Bright's disease, cardiac disease) caused 293 deaths in 1900 and 385 per 100,000 in 1930, a total of 474,000 of our people, almost as many as live in Washington, D. C."

Considering the relationship of diet to disease, Doctor Dingman declared, "We may do well to put intensive thought on how and what to eat. We put chemical materials called food into our systems with little thought of how they affect our constitutions. Pertinent today is Coronaro Ludovico's observation in 1554, 'Why should we coax and hug to our hearts the mortal poisons of strong drink, heating cordials, highly seasoned soups, indigestible meats, to prepare which we fee our enemy the cook for our undoing?' Countless infants have been killed by faulty diet, countless persons who lacked in vigor; more subtly, perhaps, more slowly, countless persons who have thought that they were strong. onquest in the realm of diet may lead us far in thwarting the A B C's of death."

NEW FILM TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

Windproof microphones are now making their debut, designed to eliminate the whistling of capricious breezes on outdoor locations.

Charles F. (Chuck) Reisner, director of "Love in the Rough," brought the recording devices into use for the first time, while shooting golf scenes on the links bordering Lake Norconian, in southern California, when sound technicians reported that wind interference hampered dialogue.

The windproofing consists of a globular contrivance, made of a light wire frame and covered with airplane cloth. Into this cage-like affair, the micriphone is dropped, suspended from its customary movable boom.

Robert Montgomery and Dorothy Jordan are paired for the first time in the featured romantic roles of the musical-comedy film which will be shown tomorrow at the Fox California Theater. Benny Rubin heads comedy honors in the supporting cast.

DRIVE STARTS TO SAVE GIRLS FROM FAGS

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—UP—A national crusade to save women from the asserted social, moral and physiological perils latent in tobacco was started today. Aghast at the growing popularity of the cigaret, a group here has organized the "Anti-Smoking League for Women."

Incorporators of the league include the wives, respectively, of a lumber merchant, a carpenter and a linotype operator.

"Moral suasion" will be the first weapon of the league, according to Mrs. Robert P. Williams, president, but when and if that fails, laws will be sought to prevent women from smoking cigaretts. Pipes and cigars were not mentioned in the league's platform.

Invite Men to Join

Men will be invited to join, Mrs. Williams announced. She admitted that there was slight chance of an immediate ban on cigaret smoking but she had hopes.

"We aim to reform the minds of these young girls and young women, especially young mothers, who are smoking cigarets," she explained.

"There are a great many people all over the country, we believe, who feel as we do—that smoking by girls and young women tends to bring them into disrespect, tends to break down their morals and in the case of young mothers, tends to have a bad influence on the unborn child. We feel that these people will welcome an organization through which they may find expression, and unite in a strong campaign to stop this evil."

No Immediate Hope

She pointed out that the campaign was in no way denominational and expressed the hope that Protestants, Catholics and members of other faiths would unite in the crusade. She said her organization was not concerned with drinking on the part of women and would confine its activities to smoking.

"We do not think we can stop cigaret smoking by women right away, of course," she added, "but we hope to stop it in time by showing the strength there is behind our crusade and showing that smoking is not so favorably regarded as heretofore has been supposed."

Chicago Senator Held Tax Defaulter

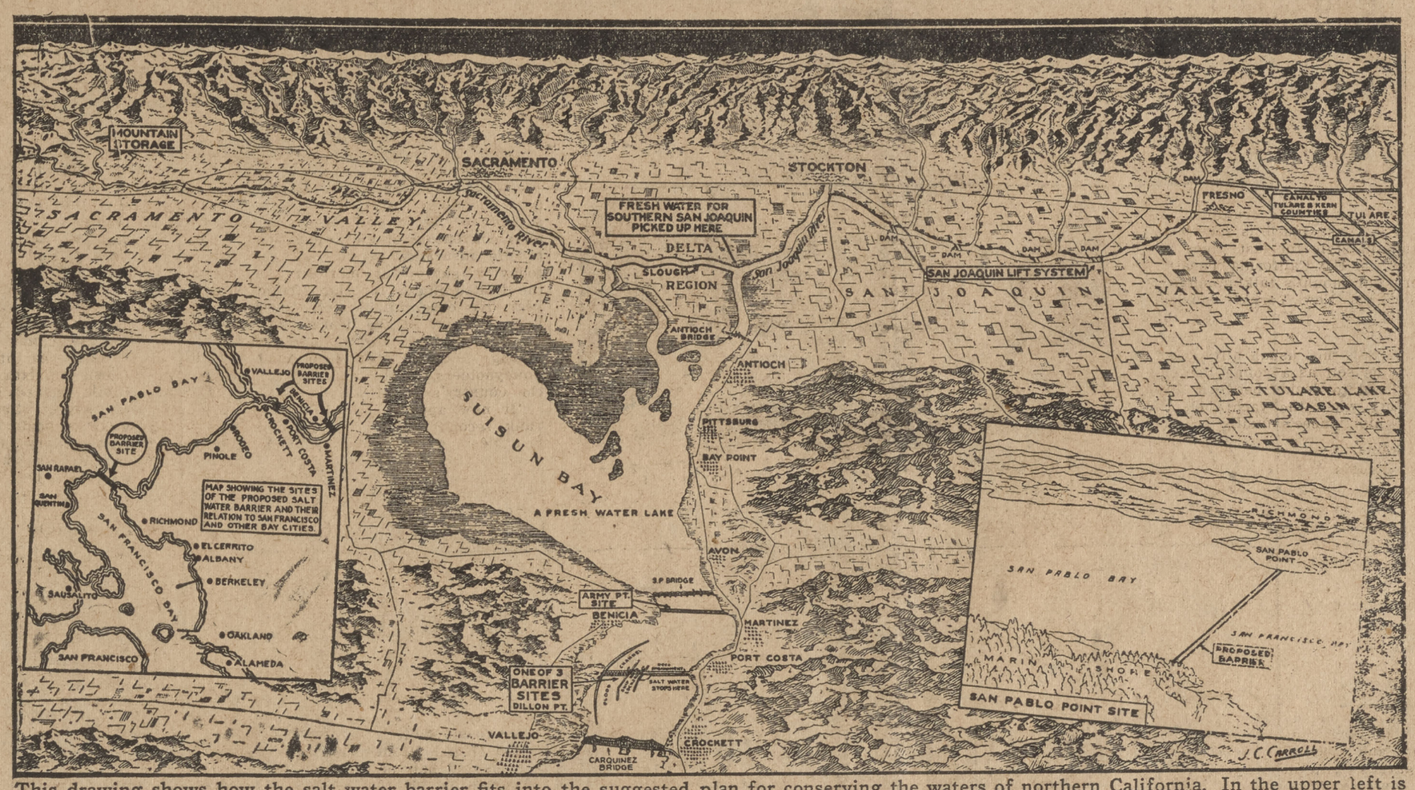
CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—UP—Uncle Sam's 100 percent batting average in prosecution of prominent Chicago income tax defaulters remained intact tonight when a jury convicted State Representative L. C. O'Brien, of failure to pay his income tax during 1927-27-29.

O'Brien faces a maximum penalty of three years in the federal penitentiary and a fine of $10,000 on each of six counts. Jan. 8 was set as date of passing sentence.

The convicted politician has been a member of the Illinois legislature for 14 years. He said he thought he was exempt from all taxes because he was a representative. The jury deliberated three hours.

During the three year period the government showed that O'Brien had an income in excess of $435,000, for which it claimed he owed with interest and penalties $81,894.

Sites For The Proposed Bay Barrier



This drawing shows how the salt water barrier fits into the suggested plan for conserving the waters of northern California. In the upper left is shown mountain storage. To the right is the San Joaquin valley lift system, intended to transport Sacramento waters to the parched areas of Tulare and Kings counties. In the foreground is seen the bay barrier in Carquinez Straits, marking the dividing line between fresh and salt water and creating a reservoir of fresh water contiguous to the bay industrial region. The Salt Water Barrier Association will urge that the barrier be fitted into the water conservation plan along some such lines as indicated in the drawing.

Two Wounded In Raid On Huge Sonoma Still

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 12.—UP—Prohibition agents and asserted liquor runners engaged in gunplay today near Sonoma, with the result that two suspected bootleggers were wounded, one seriously.

Later in the day agents discovered and seized what is said to be the largest still ever found in Sonoma county and seized three prisoners as well as 100,000 gallons of mash which would have become "Christmas whiskey" for bay region tipplers.

The shooting occurred when agents M. J. Buckley, Gus Monroe, and Tom Goodwin became lost in a fog. They stopped their machine and Monroe left afoot to seek a guide.

While he was gone, an automobile containing Hugh Prassa, 39, and Antone Providently, 22, came by and was hailed by Buckley and Monroe.

Immediately, according to Buckley, Prassa fired a revolver, accidently wounding his own driver Providently. Buckley then drew his own weapon, wounding Prassa severely. The latter was in a serious condition with a bullet in his stomach, at Sonoma County hospital.

Later, agents found the big still, capable of turning out 500 gallons of "moonshine" daily, camouflaged behind false fronts on a ranch south of Sonoma.

Three men, whose names have not been revealed, were arrested.

day the hopelessness of his situation. He rose dramatically and said

"Gentlemen, I'm a dirty crook crook. There is something wrong with my handling of the books. Several millions, I think."

Large Bail

An hour later he was clad in the blue denims of the county jail. At noon he was indicted on a specific charge of defaulting with $43,200. In mid-afternoon bail was set at $250,000.

Tonight, Rupert L. Fleury vice president and auditor of the Guaranty Building and Loan, was arrested by the district attorney's office on grand theft charges. Fleury confessed that he aided Beesemyer out of loyalty, but claimed that he never received any of the money.

Apparently waiting calmly for the law to take its course and with no intention of dodging responsibility, Beesemyer told newspaper reporters shortly before Fleury's arrest:

Defends Aid

"No one is in this with me, not a soul besides myself got a cent out of this picture. I am entirely responsible and I'm doing everything I can to aid in cleaning up this affair."

Beesemyer lived quietly with his family—a wife and son. Five years ago his defalcations began. They were told today by Judge H. Palmer, Hollywood newspaper publisher, who was called by the directors of Guaranty Building and Loan to aid in the present situation.

Beesemyer first took $25,000 to promote a Hollywood store, but it did not materialize and there was interest to meet. In two years Beesemyer's withdrawals reached a million dollars. He put $2,000,000 in an oil company that became bankrupt. Still more money was invested in Venice oil wells which pay him $1500 profit daily.

Formed Company

Beesemyer formed the North American Bond and Mortgage company to finance second paper which Guranty Building and Loan could not handle. North American paid an eight percent quarterly dividend, which it did not earn, but was being supp'ied from withdrawn Guaranty building and Loan funds.

"So great did the speculations become that Beesemyer was paling $360,000 interest annually on his withdrawals," Judge Palmer said. "His confidence that he would be able to repay was striking, even to the end."

The Guaranty company had headquarters in Hollywood and branches in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Glendale, Santa Monica and Beverly Hills. Crowds gathered about the various offices today. It was said by commissioner Whitmore that stockholders might receive 50 cents on the dollar. In its semi-annual statement last June, the company listed assets at $11,530,247.67, of which $8,590,323.91 was loans. Beesemyer turned over personal property today which may total $3,000,000.

Meanwhile, an investigation was underway to determine how the books of the company passed regular state inspections while in bad condition.

ROLPH SCORES YOUNG FOR FAULTY WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—UP—Charges of incompetency made against Charles G. Whitmore, state building and loan commissioner, by Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr., here today brought immediate replies from Governor C. C. Young and Whitmore, who insisted everything possible to prevent such an embezzlement as was disclosed in audit of books of the Guarantee Building & Loan association in Los Angeles today.

"Does anyone think the $8,000,000 were stolen in an hour or a night?" Rolph had asked, and then answered his own question with an emphatic "no."

"It was stolen during the time that the incompetent Whitmore was supposed to be on the job," Rolph continued.

Continues Attack

He went on to attack "appointment of repudiated public officials" by the outgoing governor, saying he would seek changes of the law that makes possible such "death bed appointments."

"I'll have to laugh that off," Whitmore told the United Press in Los Angeles when asked to comment on Rolph's statement. "It rather relieves a very tense situation by putting a little humor in it.

"But seriously speaking Rolph probably knows nothing about the administration of the building and loan department.

Young In Defense

"I have nothing to be ashamed of in the administration of the department and no apologies to make to anyone."

Governor Young issued his defense of Whitmore at Sacramento and said in answer to Rolph's charges:

"This statement is so unlike the man I have conceived Mayor Rolph to be I cannot believe it authentic.

"For instance I cannot believe that my successor would criticize me for appointing my secretary as building and loan commissioner since it is obviously as appropriate to appoint a private secretary as building and loan commissioner as it would be to appoint a private secretary as superintendent of banks (Rolph recently appointed his secretary while mayor of San Francisco, Ed Rainey, to the latter post).

"Neither can I believe that the mayor claims to have received hundreds of letters denouncing the present commissioner for I had not imagined there are that many applicants for this particular job.

"As I have said many times, I wish nothing but good fortune to the new state administration and so sincerely trust Mayor Rolph is successful in geeting as fine a body of men for state service as we have had during the past four years."

Two Gangsters Taken For Ride

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—UP—Two gangsters went on the traditional and gruesome one way ride of the underworld today.

Enemies lured them into an automobile, sped to Evergreen park, a suburb, shot both through the head and tossed the bodies into a ditch.

The victims were identified as James Thomas, alias Samuel Tomasulo, 30, and Rudolph Mareno, 24, both of whom came here from Buffalo, N. Y., several months ago.

Each wore a gold ring, set with a red stone, insignia, police believed, of a black hand extortion gang.

Rites Held For Army Commander

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 12.—UP—Services with full military honors were held here late today for Brig. Gen. George C. Barnhardt, commander of Fort Bliss.

Later, upon decision of relatives the body will be removed from the vault and sent to West Point, N. Y. for permanent burial.

General Barnhardt died Wednesday night from blood poisoning.

4 Victims Found On Murder Farm

WATFORD CITY, N. D., Dec. 12.—UP—A murder farm on the bleak prairie near here tonight sent authorities digging for more bodies in what apparently was a wholesale killing plot.

With four bodies already found under the barn on the A. E. Haven farm, Coroner Harry Larson said he was sure the remains of two more members of the family would be located.

The mystery suddenly was revealed when authorities charged Charles Bannon, farm hand, with stealing hogs from the Haven farm.

"Not only that," he blurted, "but Mrs. Haven hired me to bury the bodies of her husband, her two boys and a baby girl after she killed them."

Officials were inclined to believe that Bannon was demented, but when he said the bodies would be located under the barn, excavators dug up the floor. They found the bodies of Haven, two sons, one 19, the other six, and a daughter six weeks old.

"What happened to Mrs. Haven and her other daughter?" authorities asked Bannon. He mumbled vaguely something about them having fled.

Daughter Of Car Magnate Divorced

RENO, Nev., Dec. 12.—UP—Charges of desertion contained in a suit filed against Margery Durant Cooper, daughter of the automobile magnate, gained a divorce for John Hampton Cooper, former ginger ale salesman, here today.

The Coopers were married in Newark, N. J., in 1928. Mrs. Cooper had previously secured a divorce here.

Gold Strike In Nevada Region Reported By Two

LOVELOCK, Nev., Dec. 12.—UP—Prospectors were engaged in a new gold rush tonight and were being lured to a remote region 60 miles from here where two brothers, John and Charles Scossi, had reported during the day discovery of what appeared to be a rich strike.

The prospect was that all choice sites would be taken over the week end. In less than 12 hours a small tent city had been set up and several hundred locations had been filed.

The Scossi brothers, old time prospectors who originally came from Stockton, and have been searching gold in Nevada for many years, came into town today with 90 pounds of ore purported to be gold and estimated to be worth several thousand dollars.

They said they believed the crude ore from which they took the gold would assay approximately $185 a ton and said they based this opinion on preliminary tests.

Their first workings were stored in bank vaults around town.

The brothers said they had dug only four feet below the surface and could not estimate either how deep the vein is or how much the claim is worth.

The find was made two miles from Sulphur and was believed to be in mother lode of Placeritos mine which has been profitably operated for years.

Prospecting and mining equipment in stores here was sold out quickly and the proprietors sent to Reno to obtain more.

Sulphur is situated on the Western Pacific railroad and is so easily accessible that it was feared that great numbers of unemployed would swarm over the area in hopes of gaining riches.

Suit To Be Filed Against Soviets

GLOBE, Ariz., Dec. 12.—UP—A suit against the Russian government for alleged violation of an international "dumping" act is being prepared here by operators of an asbestos mine in Bear canyon it was learned today.

Keasby and Mattison, the operators, also have asked Senators Ashurst and Hayden of Arizona to instigate federal investigation of alleged "dumping" of huge quantities of Soviet asbestos in New York and Philadelphia.

Chamber of commerce officials in Globe are assisting the company in preparing the suit, to be filed in Washington.

Keasby and Mattison executives said asbestos which sold a year ago for $400 to $450 a ton now is quoted at $160. Production in this district is approximately 2,000 tons a year.

BIRTH REPORTS FOR MONTH FILED

The report for births for the month of November as announced yesterday by Dr. Charles R. Blake, commissioner of health, shows that fewer births were recorded in this city in November, 1930, than during any November for the past four years.

During November of this year 24 babies were born here. The totals for the other years are: 31 for 1929; 29 for 1928; and 29 for 1927. Fourteen girls were born during November of this year in comparison to 10 boys.

The list of births for November 1930, is as follows:

November 18, to the wife of J. Andrade, a son.
November 15, to the wife of C. Connolly, a son.
November 2, to the wife of R. Cox, a daughter.
November 12, to the wife of F. Forwick, a daughter.
November 11, to the wife of M. Frazier, a son.
November 6, to the wife of C. Gatter, a daughter.
November 16, to the wife of S. Gonzales, a son.
November 15, to the wife of J. Jones, a daughter.
November 12, to the wife of W. Luiz, a son.
November 4, to the wife of F. Luzania, a son.
November 30, to the wife of J. Madden, a son.
November 19, to the wife of R. Martinez, a daughter.
November 16, to the wife of A. Matteucci, a daughter.
June 20, to the wife of D. Miranda, a daughter.
November 18, to the wife of E. Moles, a daughter.
November 4, to the wife of O. Munoz, a daughter.
November 25, to the wife of D. Murphy, a son.
November 25, to the wife of C. Parker, a daughter.
November 15, to the wife of E. Perez, a daughter.
November 20, to the wife of R. Smith, a daughter.
November 24, to the wife of G. Sproule, a daughter.
November 4, to the wife of J. Valenti, a son.
November 5, to the wife of P. Walsh, a daughter.

Farmer Gored By Mad Bull Dies

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Dec. 12.—UP—Joseph Lassasso, 61, died at his ranch several miles north of Grand Junction late today an hour after he had been gored by a bull.

The animal trampled him on the ground, breaking his arm and crushing his side.

Stories of adventure

SILHOUETTE of a horseman against a desert sky . . . a swaying figure on a storm-swept deck . . . how enjoyable but how little related to your own every-day life are the stories of adventure that you read.

But there are adventure stories of another kind that you come upon every day. Adventures with a thrill and excitement of their own—adventures that you can share. You find them in the advertisements in your daily newspaper.

The advertisements tell you of new experiences that can be made a part of your life. They tell you how it feels to skim along the road in a smoothly powered, new car. To turn a switch on a new radio and command the harmonies of a superb orchestra. To board a limited train and go whirling across the country on a new kind of vacation.

The advertisements do not stop with telling you about these things. They tell you exactly how you can make them your own—most economically and with the greatest assurance of satisfaction. Read the advertisements. Share the adventures in pleasure and satisfaction they offer you!

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

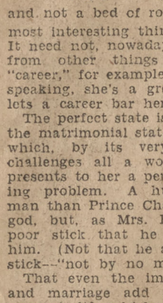
WOMAN'S GREAT ADVENTURE

"MARRIAGE," G. K. Chesterton, distinguished British author, told a New York audience the other night, "is an adventure, like going to war. That's the explanation for men going into it and being willing to wear ill-fitting clothes, eat badly cooked food, and toe the line twenty-four hours a day."

"Marriage," a woman might reply to Mr. Chesterton, "is an adventure, like going to war. That's the explanation for women going into it and being willing to work harder than before, go without luxuries and pleasures enjoyed in girlhood, and do their duty by husband and children for a lifetime."



Anyhow, an intelligent woman comes nearer to agreeing with Mr. Chesterton's view of the adventurousness of marriage than with Miss Ishbel MacDonald's recent reference to "humdrum married life."

"I don't mean," the British Premier's daughter quickly added, "that all married life is humdrum, but it may appear so to girls, compared with careers and a bachelor life of their own." She further qualifies her remarks by a reminder of the tragic truth that for British girls the choice of a mate who will not make marriage "humdrum" has been reduced by the war, "for, with all due respect to the survivors, some of our finest men were lost."

SOME of the finest American men were lost too, but, in the large, the matrimonial choice of this generation of young American women has not suffered greatly. All the more reason, it seems to us, why they should not shirk the adventure of marriage. Yet some of them are doing just that, in the opinion of Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, successful editor and writer, sane and whole-hearted woman's woman.

After thirty-five years' acquaintance with business and professional women Mrs. Richardson has just given the following warning to the distinguished group who foregathered at the friendship dinner of the American Woman's Association:

"Business has led us too close to segregation. Segregation is a dangerous thing. We are getting sniffy about the men. We are earning so much that we are having trouble about marrying them. This is a very serious thing, because marriage is an awfully good thing for women and an awfully good thing for society. It's all right up to the time you are fifty, but after that you are lonely. So my advice is: 'Poor sticks that men may be, marry the creatures!'

"Until we can have synthetic babies, just as we have synthetic silk, you've got to marry a man to have 'em. You can adopt them if you want to, but it isn't the same thing, because if you have a husband and the baby doesn't turn out right, all you have to say is, 'It takes after your family!'

"You can make your money and you can lose it, but if you keep your children you have something in those last years, when you go down that last path, not alone, but with a great sustaining force—the children that you have brought into the world."

MARRIAGE—with or without children—may be, as Stevenson observed, a field of battle and not a bed of roses—but it's the most interesting thing in the world. It need not, nowadays, bar a woman from other things she wants—a "career," for example. But, generally speaking, she's a great goose if she lets a career bar her from marriage.

The perfect state is rarely, perhaps, the matrimonial state. But it is one which, by its very imperfections, challenges all a woman's resources, presents to her a perpetually absorbing problem. A husband is more man than Prince Charming or demi-god, but, as Mrs. Richardson says, poor stick that he may be, marry him. (Not that he always IS a poor stick—"not by no means!")

That even the imperfect husband and marriage add something to a woman's life which she will not obtain in any other way was brought home to us as we read Dorothy Walworth Carman's brilliantly clever new novel, "They Thought They Could Buy It." A story of life in a typical New York suburb, the book presents three husbands whom every woman recognizes.

There is Clifford, handsome and magnetic, selfish and faithless. Yet even when he upsets the applecart of marriage, his wife, Joyce, can assure him, gravely: "I've been very happy. I've had seven beautiful years."

There is Joe, who loses his job and is long in finding another. Yet Amelia, mother of his four children, can tell him gallantly that he is no failure—"a man isn't a failure if he loses one nasty underpaid little rat of a job." And Joe thinks, in a great wave of thankfulness: "Almost any woman could cry with a man. But only one woman in a thousand could keep the bloom on a man's pride."

There is Seth, who doesn't appreciate grand opera and is shocked by James Joyce, but whom his superficially aesthetic and intellectual wife, Lydia, finds the most loyal of mates, the most congenial and devoted of co-parents.

FOR no one of these three women—for no one of three million other women—is marriage unflawed bliss; but, for each one, marriage makes something happen. It is, as Chesterton says, an adventure. It is, as Prof. A. E. Heath, of the University of Wales, said in a recently cabled dispatch, "not the dull thing that the moralists will so often insist on but a series of adventures."

If Isbbel MacDonald and Anna Steese Richardson are right — if bachelor girls, in either the United States or England, are thinking scornfully of marriage—then bachelor girls had better think again!

GHOSTS

Mad memories remain, like ghostly ghouls
To haunt the earthly shell that once was theirs;
They lurk and hide in half-forgotten lairs
And make of us sad wretches and sick fools.

E. ELSBERG

A LOST LEADER

Mother Jones, who has just died a centenarian after a fighting campaign of more than sixty years for better conditions for workers, was the Barbara Frietchie of the labor movement. She also was a complete refutation of the theory that women will not sacrifice personal interests to some great impersonal cause.

Have Hangers Handy

HAVE a place for the children to hang their outer garments and have the hooks low enough for them to reach. They will like to hang up their own coats, etc. When it ceases to be a novelty they may become lax, but persistence on the mother's part will soon establish the habit and the children will just naturally hang up their wearing apparel when they come indoors.

Stretch a piece of heavy wire on the lower part of the closet door or wherever the children hang their outer garments, and have snapper clothespins on the wire line. These will keep caps, mittens, rubbers, sweaters, etc., off the floor and they can always be found when wanted.

A DISH A DAY

One of our readers reports that she has collected and tried more than twenty cranberry recipes and that, even so, she longs for more. For a while she thought that perhaps she was glutting the family appetite for the tart red berries by serving them too often, but on the contrary the family attitude proved to be, "What, no cranberries?" whenever they were omitted from a day's menu.

KAREN HOLLIS

These berries, with their piquant, distinctive flavor, have more uses than any other berry, except possibly currants. With omelets, with poultry or meat, as filling for cakes or pies, or as a relish they are equally good. Many cooks combine cranberry jelly with gravies and sauces to give them a tart flavor, and others are equally enthusiastic over the addition of cranberry jelly to mayonnaise to be served on fruit salad. No doubt our correspondent has tried all those, but I wonder if she has ever had an old-fashioned New England cranberry roll? This, like many other excellent recipes, comes from the notebook of a woman whose cooking has long been the pride of the church suppers in a little New England town.

This cranberry roll should be served hot with a sauce that is not very rich or highly flavored. Vanilla sauce, or hard sauce slightly flavored with lemon, is very good.

NEW ENGLAND CRANBERRY ROLL

2 cups cranberries
¾ cup sugar
1 cup water
2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powde.
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of nutmeg
6 tablespoons shortening
Two-thirds cup milk (about)

Boil three-quarters cup of sugar and one cup water together for five minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring for five minutes, or until berries stop popping. Set aside to cool while preparing batter for pastry roll.

Sift flour once, measure, then sift again with salt, baking powder and nutmeg. Cut in shortening and mix until flour has consistency of coarse meal. Add just enough milk to form a soft dough. Roll out on lightly floured board until about one-quarter inch thick. Spread with cranberry sauce, which should be quite cool. Roll up and pinch the ends together firmly. If ends will not stick together, fold them over. Place on a buttered baking dish and bake for twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

A New Blouse Picks Up an Old Suit

In Satin, Lace, Net, Jerse or Flat Crepe They Are Good

by Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Compan, (New York World) 1930

LOOK around at your various suits and skirts. Wouldn't a new blouse do something for them?

It's wonderful in a blouse what you can do by way of redeeming something that is halfway worn out. We haven't had that privilege for some seasons past, but now the fashions are with us again, as why shouldn't they be in these hard times?

Also one skirt or one suit can be made to do duty for several blouses—another way of beating the expense game and keeping your smartness of dressing intact.

You can't, of course, wear any old blouse with any old skirt. But you can adjust your afternoon blouse to your velvet skirt or suit, your sports blouse to your tweeds, or your lingerie blouse to your tailored things.

Once you begin making the combinations you will be fascinated by the various seemingly new clothes you can make from what otherwise might be called old ones. The right blouse will pep up a whole ensemble and do it charmingly, but the blouse must be right.

For Afternoon Clothes

THEY are wearing lace blouses—just little suggestions of things—some of them done in all-over lace of the heavier varieties and others done with inserts of lace combined with cotton net. These delight the heart of any woman. One that is illustrated here has insets of wide Alencon lace running crosswise and alternated with bands of tucked net. There are little cap sleeves of the net with bands of the net to finish them. The blouse is a pretty sort of finish for a velvet skirt and a velvet jacket.

One of eyelet embroidered batiste would serve the same purpose admirably. It is made, as you see it pictured, with bias bands of the same material set on midway of the blouse and a little short shaped peplum and slightly flared cap sleeves.

Both of these are good with the dressier sort of suit and beautifully fresh and crisp looking when the coat is removed.

FOR WEAR WITH DRESSY AFTERNOON SUITS: A BLOUSE OF NET AND LACE AND ONE OF EYELET EMBROIDERED BATISTE

For Street Wear

IF YOU buy a blouse now to rejuvenate a suit that has been worn some time and needs an inspiration, it will carry on into the spring for the suit that you will be wearing then. That is a point not to be lightly passed over, for the blouse costs something and the longer its usefulness lasts the better for the budget.

Satin blouses are good—preferably in white or the off white shades. One shown here with double breasted front and wide revers is perfect for the street suit.

Then there is another made of double net—long sleeves and a rounded tucked vestee sort of front with a tiny frill of lace outlining the boundaries of the vest inset.

All sorts of lingerie blouses are good—also the Vionnet type in flat crepe with a scarf for a collar arrangement. They can either be tucked under the skirt band or worn with very tight short peplums fitted over the skirt's yoke.

For Sports Wear

JERSEY blouses grow better and better for sports or for wear with tweed skirts and suits. They are quite tailored in their aspects—stitched and buttonholed, with set-in pieces, points and squares well designed and apportioned.

The one that is shown here is made in white jersey with a scarf that is banded at intervals with black.

Other good colors for these jersey blouses are yellow, gold, a deep rose color, green—pastel or beige—and blue. They are varied often by bandings or bindings of contrasting color, all to suit the make-up of the tweed with which they are to be worn.

Schiaparelli's collar of folded material that is tied in a bow tie is one of those that carry over with all the success in the world. It is so good that we cannot drop it from the fashion category, and if the line is becoming to you, then have one in whatever material you wish.

Enameling the Stove

TO HAVE success in enameling a gas range there must be an absolutely clean surface. There must be no dirt or grease in the corners or crevices. So begin by thoroughly cleaning the range. If necessary, use gasoline or benzine.

When thoroughly dry, sandpaper rough spots until smooth; all glossy spots should be sandpapered until dull and all rusted portions should be sandpapered until bright. Badly worn or bare spots should be touched up with the enamel thinned a little with turpentine.

Allow this to dry, then rub the entire surface lightly with fine sandpaper. Wipe clean and apply the enamel. One coat is usually sufficient unless you desire to put a new light coat over a dark one. In that case the surface will require two coats. If the second coat is necessary, allow the first coat to dry hard, then sandpaper lightly to dull the lustre before applying the second coat.

Very cold enamel, working in a cold room or a draft may make the enamel stiff, and difficult to apply, so it is well to avoid these conditions. It is also well to remember that to get absolutely satisfactory results you must use a good brush that is clean.

There are excellent enamels on the market. For a stove a good engine enamel or an auto enamel will insure satisfactory results. These come in various colors and with the addition of white enamel any desired tone may be obtained.

Aids to Christmas Shopper

DAD'S gift is often a perplexing problem. Why not give him something in the line of home comforts? A comfy chair, a foot rest or the type of lamp that will add to his comfort. One of the kiddies might give him a pipe rest. These come in unusually attractive designs and will keep the ashes from spilling over. If he smokes several pipes, a pipe rack may please him. If he smokes cigars or cigarets one of those ash trays that can be placed on the arm of the chair and stay put would be a convenience.

The woman who entertains would be pleased with a set of those new colored mirrored glass coasters. They come in ruby, green, azure, amber, gold and cobalt.

If she is an auto driver, she might like one of those mats of wool fur with the rubber base for the floor of the car which will protect her shoes and especially her high heels, and also prevent that excessive foot fatigue.

One of those moth proof and soil proof bags that will hold a fur scarf without folding makes a practical gift.

Earrings change in style, so she may be delighted with a pair of those long, showering earrings that are now in vogue.

TELLING THE WORLD

OUR OWN ALL-AMERICA

AFTER a lively correspondence with coaches and experts from the Atlantic seaboard, Pacific Coast, Middle West, Central America and the Antarctic Circle, we present today our All-America team. We also talked our selections over with some Chicago, Burlington & Quincy conductors.

Pay no attention to the All-America teams of other experts. Accept no substitutes or even their regular players. This "All" team of ours cannot be beaten, for the simple reason it could never be assembled to play. Few other teams can boast such inherent strength as that.

ENDS—For ends we have chosen Amos and Andy. When these boys are in burnt cork no one can beat them as end men. We would place Amos at left end with a tambourine and Andy at right end with the bones. This would leave Senator Borah in the center as interlocutor and lend balance to the team. Fesler of Ohio and Baker of Northwestern get honorable mention for ends. So do Moran and Mack.

TACKLES—For left tackle we name Mrs. Ella A. Boole. Mrs. Boole represents 18,000,000 Christian women, and you simply cannot leave a lady like that off any team. At right tackle we place Henry Ford, who has 60,000 agencies. You can't beat a combination like that. Mr. Ford also owns a private Pullman car which our All-America team could travel on, provided we let Edsel Ford play quarter back. For that reason we name Edsel Ford as substitute All-America quarter back. We also select Harvey Firestone and Thomas A. Edison as substitute tackles, as they would have to come along on Henry's private Pullman, anyway.

GUARDS—For left guard we pick the Man in the Green Hat. This would save us the expense of buying him a helmet. The Man in the Green Hat would also come in handy on long trips when Henry's private Pullman ran out of buttermilk. At right guard we place Senator Heflin. Heflin not only has the necessary weight for a guard but in case the team ever lost a game he could protest we had been robbed, call the referee and umpire dirty crooks, charge the field judge didn't give us a square deal and then demand a recount of the score. You can't leave Heflin off any 100 per cent dry, white, Protestant All-America team. Or if you do, you'll hear about it.

CENTER—Our greatest problem was filling this position. The choice finally narrowed down to Alice Longworth and Mrs. Gann, and we have decided to let them fight it out between them for the best position in the centre of the line.

QUARTER BACK—For quarter back we pick Albert Einstein. With Mr. Ezinstein playing this position nobody could understand his signals and the oppositiion would be confused. This would be the first All-America team to use quadratic equations when calling for a line buck and plane geometry for a lateral pass. Inasmuch as there are only six persons in the world who understand Einstein stuff, we would name them for our first and second string back fields and thus get a monopoly on Einstein's signals.

HALF BACKS—At left half back we would place Rudy Vallee. Our strategy would be to have him carry his megaphone when playing. The opponents would think Rudy was only a cheer leader and he could sift through them for touchdown after touchdown. We would also have him kick the point from touchdown for an encore.

At right half back we place Mrs. Willebrandt. She is very skillful at reverse plays. Mrs. Willebrandt is not FULL BACK—The best full back in not so bad for fruit juice concentrates, either. Only last week Mrs. Willebrandt's reverse play knocked Clarence True Wilson for a field goal.

FULLBACK. The best fullback in the country is Miss America, from a rear view. She would have to run backward to dazzle the boys on the opposition, but this would add variety to the team's attack. Miss America would also furnish her own bathing suit for playing, which would mean quite a saving for the team.

THIS AND THAT

Moose hunters have only got to shoot nine more guides and the Maine woods will be ready to be charted out all over again.

The Soviet will now re-establish the country on a four-year plan. But it is still tough being in the freshman class.

That $1,000,000,000 government bond issue to help the unemployed is all right. But listening to a million bond salesmen trying to sell it would keep us idle for three months.

SENATE BREACH WITH HOOVER WIDENS

WASHINGTON Dec. 12.—UP—The breach between President Hoover and the senate widened today with a revival of the 1928 southern anti-Smith campaign during committee discussion of the president's nominations to the power commission.

Democrats questioned whether or not Hoover violated the new power law in appointing as a Democrat Frank R. McNinch, North Carolinian who fought for Hoover in 1928 and voted last month for a Republican congressman. The law requires that not more than three of the five commissioners shall be of one party.

The other man nominated as a Democrat, Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, was attacked by representatives of Governor Huey P. Long, senator-elect from Louisiana. Another senator-elect, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, in a letter expressed opposition to McNinch, who told the interstate commerce committee he was an "Independent Democrat."

Some western senators have expressed critical opinions of the other three members, but there was no indication today whether the Democratic minority and the western Republican minority would combine against the nominations. It is likely that most of the five will be reported favorably by the committee for confirmation.

Meanwhile the president's first press conference since his criticism that some members of congress were planning raids on the treasury passed by without further outbursts. Republican senators after canvassing the situation, have taken up with the president the sufficiency of his much-attacked relief program. It is understood also that they have advised him of the necessity of advance information if he is to renew his vigorous public attacks on the opposition.

'Toughest Guy' Dies In Chair

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — William Lenhardt of Cleveland, whom turnkeys declared was the "toughest guy we ever had in this jail," went to his death in the electric chair today for murder committed in a cafe holdup in June, 1929.

Just before he went to the death chamber which was shortly after midnight, he remarked that he "felt like a million bucks."

Lenhardt ate two hearty meals and played cards until he was scheduled to enter the death room. His mother, Mrs. Julia Glovka, 60, visited him before the end. She was recently exonerated on a charge of attempting to aid him in making his escape from jail.

No Wonder He's Sad

HARRY LANGDON, screen comedian, the glum looking fellow with the black hat, had $25,000 on deposit in the Bank of Hollywood when the doors of that institution were closed recently by the state banking superintendent. Harry had little to say when discovered in the crowd of depositors assembled before the locked doors, but did consent to pose with his pockets turned inside out. Which, combined with his sad mien, may or may not indicate withdrawal of his ing consciousness.

His skull had been fractured by blows from an improvised cudgel made from a chair leg and a after the assault with regaining to his bare feet—all, supposedly by two men and a girl in search of his "hoard of gold." So far as was ever ascertained, no money was found. The old man eked out a precarious living selling goat's milk.

To Try Woman

Mrs. Mitchell, arrested as an accomplice, turned state's evidence and will be tried separately.

It was she who testified in court that the trio reconnoitered the shanty, saw visitors and went "to kill time at a taxi dance hall until the old man should be alone." Afterward she testified, the three went downtown to a hearty breakfast, then went to a movie.

Later, she said, they bought papers and read of the killing. "Look here," she said one of the boys complained. "Here we two do all the work and you get all the writeup!"

Car Found

The arrest of the trio was the fruition of many long hours of patient police work. Neighbors of the aged hermit had told of an automobile with white walled tires that visited the place twice on the day of the murder.

Fairly certain that assailants would not have owned and used a car with such conspicuous marking for an enterprise of that kind police leaned to the theory that they had rented an automobile and neglected to notice the giveaway. Painstakingly, for days they checked every outo rental agency in the region. A car was finally found answering all descriptions, even to the white walled tires. Arrests followed, and the girl, taken in Los Angeles, confessed.

DOUBT CAST ON GUILT OF CHINESE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—UP—Doubt that Leu Fook, arrested and charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosetta Baker, wealthy widow found strangled in her apartment early this week, was actually the guilty man, was cast today by Dr. A. M. Moody, city pathologist wha made the autopsy of the slain woman's body.

"It doesn't seem possible that a man of Fook's slight build could have inflicted the damage done the victim," Dr. Moody said.

"From my observation Mrs. Baker's chest was caved in by terrific blows," Dr. Moody added, "and from the manner in which she was strangled, I would say her assailant was a man of powerful build and tremendous strength."

This statement by the physician spurred the hunt for the "large, round faced man," reported by A. Selna, a taxi driver, as having hired his cab at 4 o'clock in the morning the day of the murder, within a block of the scene of the crime.

Another development of the day was the secret grilling of Leu by John G. Cafferty, agent of the state narcotics bureau. Rafferty did not reveal what information he was seeking.

Leu himself, discouraged at the failure of his prostations of innocence to gain freedom for himself, today went on a hunger strike, saying, "I'll starve before I'll submit to his injustice."

Despite attorney William Gloria's statements that the case against Leu, his client, seemed to grow more illogical daily, Captain of Detectives Charles Dullea, and Detective Sergeant Allan McGinn of the homicide detail, maintained that their case against the aged "houseboy" was complete and that they were in possession of additional evidence which they would not produce until the trial.

S. P. WILL AID MEN LAID OFF

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—UP—A happy New Year for hundreds of Southern Pacific workers, now idle as a result of business conditions, was assured tonight when it was learned that a loan fund with which to aid these men is being created.

The plan is that officers and employes of the company, drawing regular salaries, shall contribute one percent of such salaries to the fund for six months, starting January 1, and that the company shall match every dollar thus raised.

Cost of administering the fund will be assumed by the railroad.

Relief Fund

It will be known as the "employe relief fund" and is to be organized under the direction and control of committees on each division and elsewhere if need be, under the supervision of a central board of trustees.

Loans will be made to men who had been in Southern Pacific service a year or more when laid off and may be repaid without interest when circumstances of the borrower permits.

Officers and employes contributing to the fund will have one percent of their salaries deducted from their pay checks for the six months period, starting January 1. Contributions will be voluntary.

No Publicity

When asked for details concerning the plan, the local offices of the Southern Pacific refused to deny or confirm creation of the loan fund.

"We are not seeking publicity," the office of Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific, told the United Press.

From an employe of the company, however, the United Press received a copy of a circular issued from the office of the Southern Pacific president.

According to the circular, the movement for the fund originated with officers of the company and received the endorsement of the railroad management.

Rules for making the loans will be formulated by the various divisional officers. When need for the aid ceases, all further contributions will be stopped and any money on hand together with loans repaid will be returned to subscribers pro rata.

"This effort to help is in recognition of the unusual conditions that have brought temporary distress to many people and no employe whose family is in need should feel backward about applying for a loan," the circular says.

Odd Fellows Name Officers

Ellis M. Skow was elected chief patriarch of Contra Costa encampment last night to succeed J. H. Locke. Seven other officers elected along with Skow will be installed by the organization at a date to be set in January.

Irving J. Nelson was named senior warden; H. J. Locke, high priest; Jess White, junior warden; F. Rhoades, recording scribe; G. T. Stanley, financial scribe; L. W. Skow, treasurer; N. B. Tiller, trustee.

After the business session the "Royal Purple" degree was conferred by a team from Antioch. L. Skoog was the acting patriarch.

J. H. Locke presided at the business session.

Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of H. E. Howsman, Raymond Burke, Ed Johnston.

AT CARQUINEZ

SCHOOL CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

The beauty of the altar of an old cathedral was reproduced for the delight of a large audience in the Richmond Union high school auditorium last month when the high school International club presented the Christmas play entitled "Why the Chinese Rang."

An atmosphere of reverence and beauty and charity pervaded the entire production. The drama opened with a processional of 56 girls carrying lighted red candles through the darkened auditorium.

The first scene of the play displayed the interior of a poor hut in which lived two peasant boys. Holger, remarkably well played, by Walter Thomas, and Steen, his younger brother, played by Carl Angeli. The time was Christmas, and the notes of an organ formed a tonal background for the scene. Both brothers desired to go to the cathedral to witness the offering of gifts by the king and others of lesser rank. Their uncle Bertel, played by Edwin Brooks, arrived to go with them to the cathedral. However, an old woman who had lost her way in the woods entered the hut. She was in need of warmth and food and Holger wished to stay to care for her. His brother and uncle almost persuaded him to come with them to the cathedral, but he sacrificed his pleasure to stay.

A new scene opened at the altar of the cathedral. The king, courtier, rich women, an old man, all came to offer their gifts to the Christ Child. Finally, Holger presented a little treasure to his own, and the chimes rang. The ringing of the cathedral chimees was, according to legend, the sign that a gift had been found good and had been accepted. The scene closed with an angel standing at the altar gazing down upon the bowed heads of the worshippers.

The play was presented by the members of the International club with beauty and reverence, and the scenery was especially appropriate to the Christmas season. The production was directed by Miss Dorothy Cox, and the stage settings were made under the supervision of Mrs. Bernice James. Milton Crabb acted as stage manager, while William McCloskey directed the lighting effects.

The members of the cast of "Why the Chimes Rang" were: Holger a peasant boy, Walter Thomas; Steen, his younger brother, Carl Angeli; Bertel, their woman, Barbara Lee Grunzioila uncle, Edwin Brooks; An Old Woman, Barbara Lee Guanziroli; A Rich Man, Ed Dorr; A Courtier, Marian Silva; A Woman in Red, Virginia Giegoldt; An Old Man, Seraphin Costa; A Young Girl, Susan Corr; The King, Chalmers Gidley; The Priest, Earl Cametta; The Angel, Eleanor Galbraith; Chimes, A. Shults.

The members of the backstage chorus were: Dorothy Ervin; Jane Bellegrade, Anita Chasseur, Laura LaLonde, Dorothy Lane, Mary Lagorio, Stella Cozzo, Dave Robertson, Paul Kressman, and Paul Miller. The chorus was directed by Evelean Hebrard.

The girls who participated in the processional were: Jacqueline Armstrong, Mary Bozich, Ruth Brown, Harriett Berry, Marguerite Baker, Neva Briano, Teresa Bena, Shirley Burns, Barbara Carrick, Delpha DeBord.
